

HARDWICK

Situation in the Granite Industry Remains Unchanged.

The situation in the granite belt in Hardwick seems no nearer a favorable solution than it has at all since Jan. 1. It is to be regretted that trouble had to arise at this time and all are hoping that the situation will soon clear up, as the manufacturers report orders coming in every day.

Tuesday evening an interesting and impressive initiation ceremony was performed on eight candidates wishing admission to the order of the Modern Woodmen of America. Following the initiation the new officers were installed, regular business transacted and a social hour enjoyed. The local camp stands second in the line of membership, the number now being 221, with Burlington standing first and Barre third. This is a remarkable showing, everything considered. Next Monday evening at the Woodman hall there will be a moving picture, "The Value of a Life," which is for Woodmen and their families. This picture is a two-act affair and is to further the enlightenment of its members as to the benefits derived from its sanatorium in Colorado and pictures a patient who was cured and returned to his folks a well man. Every member and the members of his family should see this picture. A social time will follow the entertainment, and the boy scout orchestra will render music.

The boys wish to thank Mr. Taylor for this act of generosity. They will remember it when he desires something done.

HERE'S PROOF

A Barre Citizen Tells of His Experience.

You have a right to doubt statements of people living far away, but can you doubt Barre endorsement?

Read it:

A. W. Donaghy, blacksmith, 6 Merchant street, Barre, says:

Price 60c, at all dealers'. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Donaghy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.—Adv.

Canning a Beef Yearling in 10 Hours.

From the hoof to the can in ten hours. That is the transformation through which a beef yearling went in a demonstration conducted by the home demonstration agent in Montgomery county, Tex.

The yearling was killed in the morning while the agent was getting the carcass ready, sterilizing the jars, and preparing the pots for cooking. The meat was cut from the bones in neat, convenient sizes, and that which was to be served as roast beef was dredged in flour and cooked in wash pots of hot grease until brown. The steak was cut in small pieces, cooked in the wash boilers, packed in the cans, and covered with gravy. While these were sterilizing in another pot, all the bones were boiled and after these were cooked the meat was removed from the bones and ground through a food chopper for hash, loaf, or croquette meat. To the beef stock was added what vegetables were on hand and all excess fat, and this was canned for soup. In the meantime the liver, heart, and tripe had been cooked and was speedily placed in tins. Three canners heated by coal furnaces were used, and by night the entire beef was in cans for future use.

A Profit in Waste Water.

One day the people of New England will be truly electrified to learn that something constructive has been done toward delivering to their hand in full force the energy of their streams. There is even great promise at the present hour that the beginning of such a programme is not to be much longer deferred, at least so far as Massachusetts and New Hampshire are concerned. In both of these states the subject has been given thoughtful consideration by competent heads specially delegated to the task, in the one case for nearly a decade, and in the other during the past two years. Everyone, public authorities, engineers, manufacturers, power companies, and the general public, is eager to have the stage set for action and the legislatures of both states may be expected to give the matter the most serious consideration at the present sessions.

It is in a sense unfortunate that this problem, the solution of which will affect the whole of New England as a unit, must be handled otherwise than as a whole. As between Massachusetts and New Hampshire, the states that to-day seem to be the most ready to meet the issue with aggressiveness, there has thus far been manifested a disposition to overcome the contentiousness of political boundaries in a spirit of co-operation. The streams in their courses respect no such artificialities as state lines, nor are they to be coerced by legislatures into serving the community other than through a recognition that the physical laws controlling them are superior to any written statutes.

Emphasis is given to this interstate relation in the report, reviewed on another page to-day, which has been sent to

WORMS MAKE SICK CHILDREN

Signs of worms in children are: De-ranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

The safe method for ridding the child of worms is to use Dr. True's Elixir. Mrs. William G. Bonin of Caddo, Oklahoma, wrote regarding Dr. True's Elixir, "We have used it for our children for the last twelve years and certainly know the value of it." You can buy Dr. True's Elixir wherever medicine is sold. Pleasant tasting—gentle acting. The family laxative and worm expeller for children and grown folks.—Adv.

The New Hampshire legislature by George B. Leighton, commissioner on water conservation and water power. It also presents facts relative to the potentialities of the streams of that state which will be as interesting to the layman as to the engineers, since they have been set forth not only in terms of second-foot and horsepower hours, but also in the equivalent of tons of coal. It becomes clear from a reading of this document that the present waste from undeveloped powers and from inefficient existing plants must be enormous.

In a recent statement issued by the water power committee of the New Hampshire Manufacturers' association it is declared that to duplicate with steam the energy that is wasted annually in water throughout the state, considerably more than one million tons of coal would be required. Considering the economic situation of the day, the further statement that the South is vigorously developing its water powers should seriously concern all New England, which may be obliged to meet the competition of manufacturers there who are already favored with less expensive labor, and who are now to profit through cheaper mechanical agencies as well.—Boston Transcript.
